RSV AT REMBRANDT COURT

We are pleased to advise the Current RSV (Respiratory Syncytial Virus) outbreak at Rembrandt Court has subsided with only two residents in Magnolia House still currently on PPE.

These residents are confined to their rooms whilst they are symptomatic. We are pleased to report that no one is very sick at the moment, with only mild symptoms or asymptomatic.

RSV is a common respiratory virus that causes cold like symptoms, however, it can be serious for young people, older people and anyone with a weak immune system. We will continue to take all measures to contain this outbreak, and we are pleased that the number of cases are dwindling.

We will keep you updated, however, in the meantime if you have any questions please contact our staff directly and speak to the RN in charge.

GARDENS & GROUNDS UPDATE

A big makeover has taken place in the gardens on Madras Street. Over 200 Nandinas have been planted to form a small hedge along the boundary line. Numerous other small hardy and colourful shrubs have been planted, irrigated and mulched to bring the garden beds to life. We are also seeing some of the first roses in bloom for the season.
